

WEIGHT TAX LAW UP BEFORE COURT

Arguments For and Against Constitutionality of Law
Today.

(By Associated Press)
Madison—Validity of the motor vehicle registration act passed by the 1923 legislature was argued before the supreme court in a test case brought by the Transportation Association of Wisconsin. The suit was brought against the state by one Fred R. Zimmerman directly in the supreme court in an attack on the validity of the new statute.

The plaintiff claims the act is unconstitutional as a whole because of certain specified discriminations, and that section 6 of the act, providing for re-registration of commercial vehicles, is invalid even though the rest of the law be sustained. The attorney general's department, representing the state, strenuously denied both of the main contentions.

Part of Police Power
One of the main arguments made by the state's attorneys was that the motor license tax is a regulatory exercise of the police power of the state. The plaintiff contended that the fee is a privilege tax, since a large portion of the revenues from the act are used for other than administrative purposes.

Eight alleged discriminations were argued by Ralph M. Hoyt, former deputy attorney general, attorney for the plaintiff, as basis for holding the act unconstitutional. They follow in brief: Discriminations exist in license fee per pound for vehicles of different weight but of the same class; higher fees are required for busses seating more than five passengers than for trucks or pleasure cars of the same capacity; act discriminates against busses in favor of taxicabs; discriminates by exemption of tractors used for agricultural purposes by exemption of trailers under 3,000 pounds gross weight; pleasure cars over five years old are given reduced taxes whereas commercial vehicles are not; exemption granted to registered taxicabs; much of revenue from act will be used for highway construction and maintenance in rural districts and whereas greatest part comes from cities.

General Disclaimer
The state disclaimed all of these contentions, and argued that even though some of the contentions be sustained, only a portion of the new act can be held invalid. It was further argued that there was no contractual obligation on part of the state which the re-registration provision of the act would impair.

PUSH SEARCH FOR MISSING IOWA CITIZEN

Coudersville, Wis.—Representatives of insurance companies carrying policies on the life of Charles J. Rockwood, missing Des Moines clubman, who was insured for $25,000, have been at Mason lake to secure all available facts concerning Rockwood's mysterious disappearance from there, Sept. 14. At the time, Rockwood left the cottage in which he was staying, saying he was going fishing.

Insurance representatives claim they have traced a man believed to be Rockwood, who at first was thought drowned in Mason lake, where his boat and hat were found, as far as Coudersville, where he is alleged to have purchased a ticket to Duluth.

Since the discovery of a man in an alley at Phoenix, Ariz., who claims he is Rockwood, the insurance representatives have redoubled their efforts.

BUSCH COMPLAINS OF ENFORCEMENT

(By Associated Press)
St. Louis—Political considerations, such as the raising of party campaign funds, have entered the enforcement of the national prohibition law and apparently had made certain large cities immune from the provisions of the Volstead act, August A. Busch, former brewer, declared in a letter to President Coolidge, made public here last night. The letter was written by Busch under date of Oct. 15, in connection with the conference of governors of states at Washington today, with the president to discuss enforcement of the dry laws.

$10,000 PAINT SHOP FOR HOUGH

Shade Corporation Starts Work on Another Addition to Large Plant Here.

Erection of a $10,000 brick paint shop has been started by the Hough Shade Corporation at its big plant in Spring Brook, at 1023-59 McKee boulevard, the second addition to the factory to be made in the past few months. Permit for the work was issued this week at the city hall.

The building, according to A. C. Eough, head of the corporation, will be one-story with a basement, and one-third of it. It will be 70 feet square and average 15 feet in height so that the main floor will contain 73,000 cubic feet of space and the basement about 8,000 cubic feet. It will have a concrete floor, brick walls with steel sashes, and the roof supports will be of steel construction, making it as nearly fireproof as possible.

Two new dwellings are being erected in this city, permits for them having been issued this week, as follows:

M. J. Robery, $2,200 frame house, five rooms, 24x34, at 410 Washington avenue.

J. T. Tobias, $2,500 dwelling, 20 by 24, 721 Washington street.

Six Other Permits
Six other building permits have been issued this week, as follows: Garret, Ed. Westad, 1333 Carrington street, for two cars; Mrs. Elizabeth Linnell, 1421 South Second street, for two cars, $300; William E. Bahr, 313 North Chatham street, brick, 30 by 20.

Additions, remodeling — Robert Krahmer, 1020 McKee boulevard, addition, $175; John Guhring, 1403 South Third street, remodeling, $350; Bower City, Stillwater company, 315 Wall street, new roof, $800.

SLAYER SHOT TO DEATH BY POSSE

(By Associated Press)
Alexandria, Minn.—Edward Larson, 38 years old, slayer of Jacob Ley, was shot to death by a posse and his body partly buried when his bungalow was fired in an effort to drive him from cover, possemen found early today, when they examined the smoking ruins of the house.

William Ransden, a member of the posse, also is dead as a result of the series of tragic events which had their inception last night when Larson attempted to interfere for Mrs. Larson and her two sons, who had been driven from their home by the husband at the point of a gun.

Ransden was killed accidentally during an exchange of shots between the posse and Larson.

When "the maple wears a gayer scarf, the field a scarlet gown," most of us feel the urge to return Nature's compliment by decking the house in a dress, a bit gayer, a bit more colorful and a bit more beautiful. And what greater change can be wrought in the appearance of the home than with a few new lamps, another lighting fixture here, a lovelier shade there? Then, more than ever, do we need good lighting, that we may endure the long hours of it without fatigue and to counteract the effect of dark, cold days. Careful matching of fixture and lamp shades in the living room is necessary to obtain the desired harmony with hangings, rugs and draperies. Fortunately the newest thing in lights are those artistic fixtures of wrought iron and polychrome just received at the Home Electric Shop, 111 W. Mrs. Eckman Tells Her Story How Carl Fritz Was Killed

Good order has been maintained by the calmness of the court, even when craning necks and feet, inter-acting in the excitement of the trial, to shuffle their feet, laugh, or break into exclamations of satisfaction or objection.

Sheriff Wylie There.

Over the scene also towers the tall form of the sheriff, Hal Wylie, who starts the court on its way with his loud, but sonorous, "Hear Ye!"

Near the table where the lawyers sit is Adolph Eckman. His face shows the outdoor life he has led, his shoulders are slightly stooped, his hair sandy, he wears glasses, and has taken little apparent interest in the testimony until his wife went on the stand. Then he was keenly alert and sat between his attorneys, Messrs. Summer and Count, whispering to them occasionally.

When the court adjourns, the jury is led away to the Elkhorn hotel, where they are under the care of Sheriff Wylie or his deputy, Pat O'Brien. The audience files out to return to farm and chores and the court house resumes its silence for the night. All over Elkhorn groups of men gather and discuss the testimony and conjecture the verdict.

Ten Defense Witnesses.

After telling her story, Mrs. Eckman was subjected to a rigorous examination by District Attorney Alfred Godfrey, which was not concluded until 5:30. Comparisons of her testimony with her statements at the preliminary examination were made by Mr. Godfrey and Mrs. Eckman many times answered them with "I can't remember" or "I didn't understand." Objections were made by the defense to district attorney's not allow counsel to discuss testimony not allowing her to finish answering a question. The state maintained the witness could answer them by yes or no and this was sustained by the court. District Attorney Godfrey succeeded in showing during her cross examination that despite the fact that she was afraid of Fritz, she did not sell or sell help until he attacked her in the kitchen.

Ten witness testified for the defense during the afternoon and of these, six were character witnesses who stated that the reputation of Eckman in the community in which he resides was good insofar as being a peaceful, law abiding citizen. On cross examination several admitted that it was their own personal opinion and not through any knowledge gained through talking with others about Eckman's reputation. From the foundation which the state attempted to lay in asking the character witnesses what they knew of incidents throwing an unfavorable light on Eckman's reputation, it is believed it will be brought out on rebuttal that Eckman struck Ed Peterson with a pitch bar when he angered him, that on another occasion when he was dining with a man, a man asked for a third glass and that the defendant picked up a monkey wrench and struck him with it.

Introduced as evidence by the defense were pictures taken at the Eckman farm, and the churn dasher which was involved in the fight prior to the killing of Fritz.

Called to the stand an hour after the afternoon session opened, at 1:30 p. m., Mrs. Eckman, under the questioning of Attorney Charles J. Summer, told the story of her life, her acquaintance with Eckman, the quarrel over the gun and the shooting which followed.

"I am 45 years old. I came to this country 23 years ago and was married 23 years ago to Adolph Eckman. We have had no children. Who are first witness declared that county we first lived at Delavan lake, close to the Stevens place, and after two years moved to near Elkhorn, where we lived on the Walter Count place. After that we moved to near the Peter Long farm, near Darlen. Three years later we took the present place, which is known as the Luther farm. Eckman owns this place. The others were rented."

Asked about her acquaintance with the dead man, she said:

"I knew Carl Fritz in Chicago. I don't know Carl Fritz's first wife?" was asked.

"Yes."

"Do you recall when she stopped at your house for a considerable length of time?"

"Yes," was the answer.

Fritz's First Wife.

That was a year before she died. Fritz's first wife died about eight years ago. The woman who was with her in her illness. Sometime later Carl Fritz married again, a woman named Ida. They stayed at the Eckman house for six weeks or two months. After the recitation of each visit, Attorney Summer asked:

"Did you make any charge for that?"

"Was anything offered in payment?" The answer was "No."

Variously, bearing out the defense's contention that Eckman was the giver and Fritz the taker.

Mrs. Eckman said that when Fritz came back from New Mexico he brought with him a gun and a suitcase and left the gun at the Eckman house. She said she saw the gun was on the Saturday preceding Fritz's marriage to Esther Bjorklund, in Aug. 1922.

"Carl came over to the place early in the morning and I got him some breakfast. He got the gun and said he was going to clean it. It was rusty, and asked me for some machine oil which I got him. He cleaned the gun and it was two parts, when he said, 'I've got more time to fix it.'"

"Do you know what happened to the gun?"

"No, I don't. I never seen it since," said Mrs. Eckman.

She recalled the instances on which Fritz later asked about the gun. Fritz told her the story of the long trip and that he was going to clean it. She was out feeding the hogs one day when Fritz came and said: "I come to get my gun."

"I said, 'Your gun?' Why, Carl, I haven't seen it since we cleaned it. I thought you took it with you. We then looked all over the house for it but couldn't find it. Then Carl said, 'It's funny, you must have took the gun. The gun was in the house.'"

The next time he called was on a Sunday with his wife, when Oscar Johnson, Eckman, and a Nels Person, were there in addition to Mrs. Eckman. Both Mr. and Mrs. Eckman said that at that time Mrs. Eckman knew where the gun was, she testified.

Searched for Gun.

"Eckman and Fritz made another search of the house. They didn't find the gun. Then Fritz said something about wanting the gun or winning pay for it, and Eckman told him not to come there any more. I told him never to come there any more."

"Why, Mrs. Eckman?" Attorney Summer put in.

"Why, because Carl Fritz had come there so many times for the gun and we didn't find it."

"Anything further said?"

"Mrs. Fritz said, 'I've told you to bring those clothes of yours over to my place, you know my place is a safe place.' I told him to take the old clothes and never show up there any more."

Fritz, according to the witness, came there again and wanted the gun and was again told never to come there any more. He visited the place again but Mrs. Eckman was alone and she said she was afraid of Fritz and ran into the house and didn't show herself. He looked all around the place and then went away.

"What were you doing, Mrs. Eckman, on July 15, when Mr. and Mrs. Fritz drove into the yard?" questioned Mr. Summer.

"I was sunning on the south porch, feeding my little ducks. When I saw them come in I went into the kitchen and looked both doors to the kitchen. I was afraid of Carl Fritz. We had had dinner. Oscar and I ate first and then Mr. Eckman and Edner Carlson had theirs when they came home. They had been somewhere. I went in and finished washing the dishes and put them away. I saw Carl and Oscar standing by the tree talking and after standing there a little while, saw them coming towards the house."

"At that time, Eckman was lying in the bedroom and Edner was was sleeping on a couch in the dining room. Both rooms adjoin the kitchen, connected by doors."

"I went to open the door for Oscar. Carl Fritz was right behind him. He said, 'I want Carl to come in and I was going to turn the key but didn't have time when Carl stuck his foot in the door. I said, 'Carl we have forbidden you so many times not to come here.' He said, 'I've got a right to come to this place. I want my gun.' I said, 'Carl, we haven't got your gun. Then he pushed himself into the house and the others were rented.' He grabbed me by the hair with one hand and the throat with the other. He said, 'If I don't get the gun today, I will kill you all. Then I called loudly for help, as he was pushing me over the table. Eckman came first and the first thing I saw was that they were fighting over the gun. Carl got hold of the gun and said he was going to hit Eckman over the head with it. They were fighting over it and Carl hit Eckman, but Eckman stopped and was struck in the head. The gun broke and fell down on the floor in two pieces. Johnson and Edner were helping to stop the fight between the two. We were all helping push Carl Fritz out the door. Carl got hold of a churn stick. Then we pushed Carl out and Carl tried to get back. Oh! he was mad, awful mad. Then the first thing I heard was a shot. I was standing on one side of the porch doorway and Oscar Johnson at the other, and the shot came between Oscar and me. And that's all I can remember. Then I said, 'What did you do then?' was the query."

"I went and lied down, on the couch, I can't remember any more."

Mrs. Eckman added to her account that in the fighting over the churn stick, Carl had hold of the wheel and Oscar Johnson the stick part and that the head came off as Carl was backing down the steps. Oscar Johnson said that Mrs. Eckman was standing on the porch doorway and the cross examination started at the close of a recess when District Attorney Godfrey went into details concerning her fear of Fritz and events at the house the day of the shooting.

"What were you doing when Carl Fritz and Oscar Johnson came to the door?"

"I was clearing the table, putting the dishes away. I had all but a few dishes in the pantry."

"Did you have the pan on the stove? Did you have dishes in that pan?"

"No."

"When Fritz came into the kitchen, did you wash any dishes?"

"No, sir."

"Did you testify on the preliminary examination?" The witness did not understand and Mr. Godfrey explained and she answered affirmatively.

"Where you at that time asked the question, when Fritz came into the kitchen, where were you, and did you answer, 'I was standing washing the dishes'?"

"Well, I can't understand," Mrs. Eckman replied.

Continuing reading from the preliminary hearing testimony of Mrs. Eckman, Mr. Godfrey read, "Where you have the dish pan?" and the answer was on the stove, the other side of the table. "Did I answer that question and did you make answer, Mrs. Eckman?"

"I didn't understand."

The Former Testimony.

"Which side were you washing dishes in, the one on the stove or the one on the table?" and did you answer, 'stove'?"

"I can't remember. I was right in between the stove and the table."

"Did you answer 'stove,' Mrs. Eckman, and was that answer the truth?"

"I can't understand what you mean."

"Was this question asked and did you answer, 'When Carl Fritz entered the room, where were you standing?' and did you answer, 'I was standing by the stove'?"

"No, Mrs. Eckman answered."

"Were you asked, 'Were you standing in front of the stove?' and did you answer, 'right in front of the stove'?"

"No."

"Did Justice Williams, who sat at the preliminary examination, ask you this question, 'Had you any washing in the kitchen?' and did you answer, 'I didn't have time to wash the dishes when he got hold of me.' Did you so answer?"

"No, sir."

Turning to Mrs. Eckman's action which indicated her fear of Fritz, but showing at the same time that she did not call her husband or other witnesses, the district attorney went over her testimony on direct examination.

From the time she saw Carl Fritz in the yard until his death, Mrs. Eckman feared Carl Fritz and thought he might harm her, it was brought out by the district attorney's questioning. At various stages Mr. Godfrey asked if still fearing Fritz, she called her husband, Johnson or Carlson and each time she said "no."

Mrs. Eckman said when she went to let her husband in the house, she pushed him "kind of quick so I could lock the door, because I didn't want Carl Fritz to come in." She testified that Johnson went right upstairs when he came in and didn't help keep Fritz out.

"When pushing against the door, you and Fritz were making considerable noise?"

"I told him, 'We have forbidden you so many times not to come here.'"

"Carl made quite a bit of noise, did he?"

"Yes."

"He pushed you back, so that your feet made a scuffling noise?"

"Yes."

"Where was Mr. Johnson when Carl Fritz went into the kitchen?"

"I can't remember."

"Did he grab you immediately?"

"No."

"Before Fritz was through the door into the kitchen and while he was still pushing you against the door and you were pushing on the other side, did he say anything to you?"

"He said he had a right to come in. He spoke in a loud voice. He was mad."

The witness testified that she was in the middle of the floor when Fritz grabbed her and that as he did so, he said, "I'm going to get that gun or kill you all." He looked angry and Mrs. Eckman was "awfully afraid," she testified. Then she called for help.

"Who came into the room first?"

"I don't remember. I was on top of the table and wasn't able to see."

"Did you see anyone else?"

"Yes."

"Did Eckman have a gun when he came into the kitchen?"

"I don't remember."

"What did Carl Fritz do when Eckman came into the kitchen?"

"Carl let go of me and they were fighting over the gun. I saw the room did he yell at Fritz?"

"Yes, he yelled at him. 'Get out.'"

"Did Eckman do anything to Carl Fritz beside yell at him?"

"I can't remember."

"You remember what was said but don't remember what he did?"

"There was no answer. The district attorney drew from her the details as to the tussle between Eckman and Fritz over the gun. She said that they were pushing each other back and forth across the room."

"Were they pushing you across the room?"

"I can't remember, it took only a second."

"This Is the Way."

District Attorney Godfrey picked up the gun, holding the muzzle and pointing it from his shoulder like a baseball bat and asked Mrs. Eckman if that was the way Fritz had swung at Eckman. She said it was. Then Fritz dropped the gun like that. Mrs. Eckman said she saw Fritz with a churn stick. Mrs. Eckman said she didn't see where he got it from.

"Did Fritz make any effort to pick the gun up after he dropped it on the floor?"

"Then we pushed Carl Fritz out. Edner, Oscar and myself."

"Did you remember that they backed Fritz out of the kitchen from the north side of the kitchen where he had dropped the gun and that he was free from their grasp for a moment during the heated exit from the kitchen, at which time he grabbed a churn stick. Mrs. Eckman said she didn't see where he got it from."

Telling of the tussle over the churn stick between Fritz and Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Eckman said that Carl had hold of the wheel part and held the handle and that it pulled loose.

Concerning the striking of Eckman with the gun, by Fritz, the district attorney brought out the discrepancy in the testimony of Mrs. Eckman between the trial and the preliminary examination. At the hearing in July she said Fritz had hold of the wooden part. At the trial she testified Friday that he had hold of the iron part, the muzzle.

Character Witnesses.

Character witnesses for Eckman were Will Workok, Sharon and Nels Westerberger, Aaron Thompson, Frank Johnson, Severin Carlson and George Christie, all of Darlen, the latter former sheriff of Walworth county.

All were asked "What was the reputation of Adolph Eckman on or before July 15, 1923, as regards being a peaceful, law abiding citizen, was it good or bad? And all answered "good."

During the cross examination of Severin Johnson, District Attorney Godfrey asked about knowledge of Eckman's acts indicating a quick temper, before referred to. The defense objected that it was not proper cross examination and was sustained by the court. Showing three witnesses were expressing only their per-

THE MAKING OF A NATION

REVIEW OF THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR OCTOBER 21, 1923.

Read Joshua 1, Isaiah 10, WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

There is a piece of marble in the center of the universe and the place where the dust was taken from which Adam was made, writes Dr. J. P. Macphie. He further writes that as baseless as is this tradition, yet it is true that this land is the center from which radiated all that is best in life and history.

A picture of Israel in the midst of the nations of her day, is the story of the lesson which quotes a text from the first chapter of Joshua, and from several chapters in Isaiah. As we would put it, when Israel was led to Canaan and took over that wonderful land, she was sitting on the top of the world, dominating the riches of an empire and the learning of previous civilizations.

When Moses had spent forty years in the wilderness, most of the time in sight of the peaks of Mount Sinai, he had trained a mob of unorganized slaves into an organized nation, a trained and fighting nation. It was not a learned nation, it did not get letters until many years after the conquest. But it was composed of hardy, hard-bitten men, accustomed to hardship and to obedience. Then Moses died.

We sometimes think the world is going to stop and everything is to smash when some great man who has been a leader dies. We sometimes wonder what our community will do for a leader. But the world goes on and moves over into the cemetery. There need be no doubt in our minds about the future left to its own devices when a leader dies. The world goes on and moves over into the cemetery. There need be no doubt in our minds about the future left to its own devices when a leader dies. The world goes on and moves over into the cemetery. There need be no doubt in our minds about the future left to its own devices when a leader dies.

When Moses died, God said to Joshua, son of Nun, "Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give them." And Joshua, who had been secretary of State for Moses, took charge, led the people into Canaan, drove out the owners of this fruitful land and proceeded to start the nation on the second lap of its journey to greatness. There is always a Joshua somewhere ready to take charge. God always has an understudy ready to take up the important work and usually it is done better than before. This is worth thinking about, you men who think you are so important that things could not run if your hand was lifted.

"I have often wondered what the people who had planted the vineyards, built the houses, cultivated the olive trees and brought Canaan to high degree of agriculture and prosperity, thought about the claim of the Israelites to their country. We know they did not give up without a struggle. The Israelites simply took everything by force and accused their action on the theory that God had promised them this land and they had a right to take it. Our histories are full of wars, wars, take this view, but it was hard on the Canaanites. We took America from the Indians when we did not have any more title than the Israelites had to Canaan."

This wonderful territory which Joshua subdued was at the top of the world. It was isolated and secure. It was separated from the west by the Mediterranean sea; on the south was the great desert between it and Egypt, on the north was a rugged mountain, and on the east another desert. The people the Israelites dispossessed were the Canaanites. They tried to run out the Philistines, but that job was not completed until years afterwards, when King David delivered them a body blow. Their neighbors were the Ammonites and the Moabites, descendants of the sons of Lot, the Edomites whose start was given by son of Abraham and the Midianites, a people who believed in one God and whose chief was Jethro, father of the wife of Moses, all kin folk. Of course living next door to your kin means quarrels and fights. Then there was Egypt, a civilization center whose affairs were mixed up with those of Israel as long as the nation existed. It was to Egypt that Joseph and Mary took the child Jesus to escape from the wicked edict of a fearful tyrant.

Here we have the setting for the building of the nation which has had the most influence upon the civilization of the world. It was a fighting nation, taking what it wanted from whom it pleased. From out this commanding position, holding firm to a belief in God, came the line of David and the Christ of the Christian world. The Israelites are not sitting on the top of the world today but the things which radiated from that place over the centuries fill that place. We in the United States, occupy the position of isolation, of sea protection and toward us are turned the eyes of an expectant world for leadership and for Godliness. We are today the chosen nation of the world of Christianity.

Isaiah draws a wonderful picture in the paragraphs quoted for us as part of the text of this lesson. It is a picture of peace, a picture of the time when men shall dwell together in harmony and when war shall be forgotten, when nations will have no division lines. Israel will be the center of the world, a blessing in the midst of the earth.

Can we look into the future and see the vision and then be the messengers to help bring it about in full faith that God is directing our very plans and lives.

Tommyson must have been reading this part of Isaiah when he got his vision and then he said, "I saw the vision of the future, as far as human eye could see. I saw the vision of the world and all the wonder that would be. The war drum throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled in the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Edgar Quenton Bartholomew had two brothers and a sister, the same as of two brothers. One had been absent in Europe for a term of years. He returned to America to find his home with his sister. Here he met another cousin, daughter of the uncle, Orpha, with whom he had lived. He was to learn that the other Edgar was understood to be an accepted suitor. This Edgar and the uncle quarreled in this house there was a mystery in the main stairs, steps other than the one following up the stairs as one walked and a breath of cold air blown on one from some mysterious and unaccountable source. There was a love affair between the two male cousins and it was understood that the one married the other. The uncle is ill and there is no hope for his recovery. Edgar, who has been sick for a long time, is in the sick room. Uncle Quenton dies suddenly after being given a strong medicine. The person suspected of having administered poison to the uncle is made for the person suspected of having administered poison to the uncle. The person suspected of having administered poison to the uncle is made for the person suspected of having administered poison to the uncle.

The Coroner glanced at the jury and the jurymen at each other. She must have observed this, for a subtle change passed over her face which revealed the steadfast woman without taking from the witness of her girlishness so well known to all. She was yet in the glow of what ever sentiment had been aroused within her, when she was called upon to reply to a question of the jurymen concerning this will, leading up as I knew they must, to one which had been in my own mind ever since that evening. What had passed between her and her father when, on hearing he was ill, she went up to see him in his own room.

"Found him ailing but indisposed to say much about it. What he wanted was to tell me that on account of not feeling quite himself, he had decided not to have any public announcement made of his plans for Edgar and myself. That would keep. But that our friends who had expected something of the kind, might feel aggrieved, he proposed that as a substitute for it, another announcement should be made which would give them almost equal pleasure—that of the engagement of his ward, Miss Coplex, to Dr. Hunter. And this was done."

"And was this all which passed between you at that time? No, what of a quarrel between himself and the nephew for whom he had contemplated such honor?"

"He said nothing that would either alarm or sadden me. He was very cheerful, almost gay, all the time I was in the room. Alas! how little we knew!"

"It was the spontaneous outburst of a bereaved child and the Coroner let it pass. Would he could have spared her the next question. But his fixed idea of my guilt would not allow this and I had to sit there and hear him say:

"In the days which followed, during which you doubtless had many opportunities of seeing both of your cousins did the attentions of the one you call Quenton savor at all of those of Quenthin?"

TODAY'S RECIPES—
Cornmeal Pancakes—Scald one cup cornmeal, one cup water, one egg, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, one cup wheat flour and two teaspoons of baking powder. In case sour milk is used add one-half teaspoon baking soda.

Milk Gravy—Two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, mix smooth and add gradually one pint of milk. Bring to a boil, stir and add a little grated cheese. Stir until cheese is melted and serve over baked potatoes.

Pork and Beans—Soak one pound of navy beans overnight. In the morning pour off the water in which they have been soaked, put on fire and add a little baking soda and boil up. Pour off this water and put on fresh, let it come to a boil, skim and let it simmer gently until the beans are tender. A few taken in a spoon and blown on gently will be done if their skins are ready. Mix one teaspoon mustard in a little water, add to beans with a tablespoon molasses, half a teaspoon salt and a pint of strained tomatoes. Add a small piece of salt pork (one-quarter pound) and bake for three hours slowly.

Carrot Pudding—One cup raw carrots, grated, one cup raw potatoes, grated, one cup chopped fine, one cup brown sugar, one cup currants, one cup raisins, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon allspice, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon soda, one and one-half cups flour, lemon peel and a little salt. Steam two or three hours and serve with hard sauce.

OUR HOUSEHOLD SPICES—
Cinnamon—The bark of a species of laurel. Comes chiefly from Ceylon, Java, and Bombay. Much used for flavoring both sweet and savory dishes and employed medicinally.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I had some female troubles that just run my health down so that I lost my appetite and felt miserable all the time. I could not lift anything heavy, and a little extra work some days would put me in bed. A friend had told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I gained in every way, could eat better and felt stronger. I had found nothing better than this. I am so much better.—Mrs. J. GRACE, 221 Woltz Avenue, Buffalo, N. Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A young couple is engaged to be married as soon as their plans can be worked out. The young man, away from home, has a poor financial management, has about $500. The girl insists on much more than this for her marriage in spite of the fact that she has about five times as much saved for herself. She doesn't let him know about this, thinking that it would not help him to work out his problems.

Should she allow him to have her money after marriage, or does a girl keep her money for some future emergency? If so, how does she explain this to the man?

If a girl inherits money after marriage from her family, how does she handle it in respect to her husband's rights and the happiness of both?

In the first case the girl has made a proposition to the man by laying aside an equal amount to his each month to be used jointly to build a home. The girl loses out here and two-thirds goes to his estate. This doesn't seem quite fair in this case where the partnership arrangement exists. Is the girl helping too much or not enough? If she owned the house entirely, would he be as interested a partner? Wouldn't this tend to make him feel slighted?

Does love really exist where there is so much mercenary consideration? It seems to me that the girl places too much importance on her financial independence and makes too much effort to protect her future rights to show a really loving spirit.

It would seem to me advisable for the girl to tell her fiance of her money and say that she intends to keep it after marriage as a protection for both if needed later in life. If he is a man of pride and independence he will want her to keep it. The young man, away from home, has a poor financial management, has about $500. The girl insists on much more than this for her marriage in spite of the fact that she has about five times as much saved for herself.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a grove of hair on my upper lip. Would it be advisable to use a hair remover? Would the hair grow back again in time? What would be good?

It would not be advisable to use a hair remover on your upper lip. The only safe way to get rid of the superfluous hair is by means of electrolysis. If you use any other method the hair will grow back thicker and coarser.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

IMPROVING CHILDREN'S FEET
There are few things lovelier than a baby's feet. But very shortly after shoes are worn the feet change, and the adult who can boast of faultless and unblemished feet is in the minority. Lately we have taken decidedly more of an interest in feet. They have become something more than deformities to be hidden in shoes. We have let them out to speak, found how tremendously much more comfortable and good looking feet can be in shoes that are large and unobtrusive than in the tight, narrow shoes of the past, instead of the other way around.

Beauty Chats

MEDICAL BEAUTY HINTS

So many of the ordinary household antiseptics and medicines are also beauty preparations that a few hints about them might be useful. Peroxide of hydrogen has any number of uses, of course. A tablespoonful in the last rinse water when washing the hair acts as a disinfectant for the scalp, and helps correct oiliness. That much won't bleach the hair, but it will make it fluffy. It helps when there's dandruff, too, since dandruff is a germ and peroxide an excellent germicide.

Peroxide is good for manicuring, too. Wash the hands with warm water and soap and rinse. Roll cotton around the end of an orange wood stick, dip in peroxide (pour it out into a saucer first, for afterwards it will be useless, run around the edges of the nails and under them, too. This softens and bleaches the cuticles, and lets you rub away the dead cuticle that makes such an ugly edge.

Carbolated petroleum jelly, which contains a little carbolic acid, is excellent for sore pimples. Rub it gently into the skin, and later wash off with warm water. Boracic ointment, which is only white cream and boracic acid, is good for any skin irritation, and incidentally "cures" the skin, makes it soft and helps rid it of discoloration and impurities. Powdered boracic is good for an oily complexion if used in the hot water when the face is washed. About a teaspoonful to a basin is ample.

If the feet are swollen and tired, soak the night in a basin of hot water. A tablespoonful of boracic acid powder. It is wonderfully soothing. The same proportion of powder in hot water is also excellent for bathing the arms and hands when they perspire. It is a deodorant, too, and leaves the skin fresh and sweet smelling as it should be.

A. L. C.—When massaging cocoa butter into the pores, the object is to have the skin absorb as much of the

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

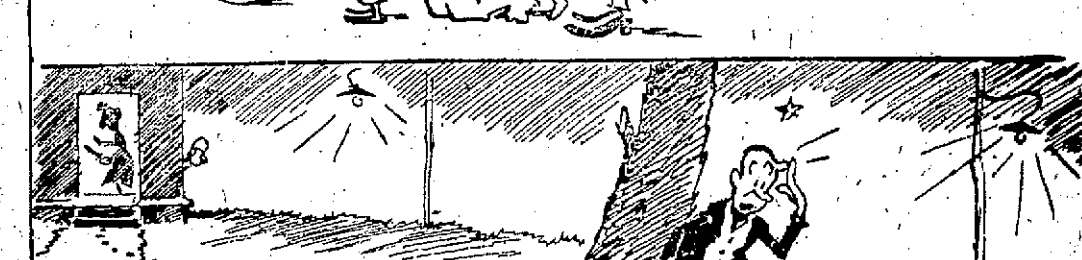

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from. Years ago your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overtaking of fatness is not concealed. There is one sure way to reduce your weight safely and quickly, the harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy, helps the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clean and smooth. A burden they cannot now bear. Take but one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the body health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, 141 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. The price the world over, and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to thinness and happiness. Advertisement.

Stock Movement Irregular; Weak Spots Uncovered

(By Associated Press.)
New York.—Speculative uncertainty over the business outlook was reflected in the irregular and continuing movements of stock prices this week. Speculators for the decline succeeded in uncovering a number of weak spots, particularly among the rubbers, leathers and specialties, but they failed to break the usual leaders.
The statement of President Coolidge that he favored lower freight rates on grain for export brought about rather heavy liquidation of the northwestern carriers, several of which touched new 1924 lows.
Considerable interest was aroused by the public offering of an additional issue of preferred stock of the "Nickel Plate" railroad. The first of its kind in many months.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

GRAIN

Chicago Review.
Chicago.—Grain markets were light brought about a moderate return in wheat. Opening prices which varied from unchanged to 1/2¢ higher, with Dec. 10 1/2¢ @ 1.04 1/2¢, and May 1.00 1/2¢ @ 1.10 1/2¢, was followed by gains all around.
Subsequently week-end adjustment of trades helped to sustain values. The close was firm 1/2¢ to 1 1/2¢ higher; Dec. 10 1/2¢ to 1.05 1/2¢ and May 1.00 1/2¢ to 1.10 1/2¢.
Favorable weather had a bearish effect on corn and oats. After opening unchanged to 1/2¢ lower, Dec. 7 1/2¢ @ 73 1/2¢, the corn market rallied a little, but then underwent a decided sag.
Later the market rallied on good buying orders. The close was unchanged 1/2¢ lower to 1/2¢ higher. Dec. 7 1/2¢ @ 73 1/2¢.
Oats started unchanged to 1/2¢ higher. Dec. 4 1/2¢. Later all months showed a slight setback.
Provisions were firmer in sympathy with the hog market.

AT THE APOLLO.
The much talked of "Human Wreckage," starring Mrs. Wallace Reid, James Kirkwood, Jessie Love and other popular favorites of the stage, has a local run of four days. This picture has received the heartiest praise from civic organizations throughout the country, which are laboring to stamp out the drug evil and has been instrumental in reviving crusades against the use of narcotics. The death of Dorothy Davenport, whose husband, Wallace, died less than a year ago, as the result of drugs, led to the filming of the picture.
The plot is gripping, showing forcibly the power of the dope ring and exposing many of its tricks and haunts. While Jimmy Brown, a crook, is the original dope fiend, as the picture develops, it shows Alan MacFarland, one of the keenest lawyers of the state, to be an addict. Facing exposure from the ring, the attorney defends the peddlers for many months, but at last breaks down and tells his wife, played by Mrs. Wallace Reid, of his habit. They go away into the mountains to fight off the habit and MacFarland, returns, apparently cured, only to fall again. In a last effort, he enters the narcotic ward and under the care of a physician wins the fight.

AT THE BEVERLY.
Silas Carrington plays the role of the "deep dyed villain" in "The Midnight Alarm," the picture opening with him murdering his partner, and forcing the widow to flee from his attentions. The widow, Mrs. Thornton, is killed in a railroad accident and her baby daughter picked up by strangers who take her in charge. A search is made for the heiress by her estranged parents, but the villain locates her first as a newswoman. The girl, and the villain are trapped by a burning building where Carrington has come to get the papers identifying the heiress. He is burned to death, and the heiress, rescued by a fire captain, marries him and assumes the station in life afforded her by the recovery of her wealth. Something out of the ordinary is

AT THE MAJESTIC.
By reason of its considered, "A Son of the Desert" is considered among many as the best of the new famous shell pictures. Helen Dobson, an art student, wishes to paint the portrait of the Sheikh Hammid Bent. Against the advice of her father and lover, Steve Kinard, Helen visits the camp of the sheik, an exciting encounter with the sheik ensues.

AT THE MYERS.
A William A. Brady production, "Up the Ladder," which has had extended runs in New York City and Chicago, will be shown at the Myers Tuesday night. This is a comedy drama, and a movie, with a good cast presenting the play written by Owen Davis. The girl was a noble stancher and the boy an enterprising bond salesman. They marry and are very happy the first year, but at the end of the second year, when the boy is at home, then comes wealth and with it the ascent up the ladder. In the final act, which follows wealth, the young couple grow apart and the husband in his effort to amass money forsakes his wife and ends with a generally happy readjustment.

Dr. Tippet Hurt in Auto Accident

Dr. J. H. Tippet, Appleton, is recovering from injuries received in an auto accident Oct. 7. He was minister of the local Methodist church for eight years, being here when the present building was built, and is now superintendent of the Appleton district.

The accident occurred near Appleton, when his coupe was driven over a 10 foot bank to avoid a collision with another automobile. Dr. Tippet received a scalp wound from broken glass and a chest injury from being pinned against the steering wheel.

Mrs. Tippet, who was with him, suffered only minor bruises.

$319,000 IN 1924 FOR SCHOOL COSTS

Takes 54 Per Cent of Total Tax Levy—$200,000 for Salaries.

With approximately 54 per cent of the $593,000 city budget for 1924 appropriated for school purposes, including payment of interest and principal upon bonded indebtedness, it is of interest to taxpayers generally to know to what use this money will be put. An analysis of the 1924 budget shows that $319,079 will be expended for school purposes as follows: Board of education, $226,870; industrial school, $19,362; and school loans and bond interest, $72,847.

While it is not more than the above amounts to operate the schools the coming year, certain receipts from other sources, such as the state and tuition, will make up the difference. It is expected. Included in the $226,870 allotted to the board of education is an appropriation of $12,000 for cafeteria equipment for the new high school, and $4,500 for connecting the Jackson and Garfield ward schools with sewer and installing plumbing.

Major Portion for Salaries.
The school board's budget shows a total of $236,500 to be expended for school operation and outlays next year, with receipts amounting to $49,836 reducing the amount to be raised in the general tax levy to $186,664.

Of this $236,600 to be used, more than $200,000 will go for salaries and $12,000 for fuel.

Followed in the budget, as prepared by the board of education, is Budget in Full.
Attendance, $2,000; superintendent, $5,500; supervisors, grades, music and art, $6,000; clerk of board and secretaries, $3,300; kindergarten salaries, $6,850; light school teachers' salaries, $7,600; elementary teachers' salaries, $50,000; manual training teachers' salaries, $11,500; domestic science teachers' salaries, $7,700; extra teachers, $2,000; defunctive speech, $2,000; opportunity room, $1,900; janitors' salaries, $22,000; play grounds and swimming beaches, $2,500; educational supplies, $6,500; janitors' supplies, $2,200; repairs, $7,000; fuel, $12,000; insurance, $4,000; light and power, $4,000; telephones, $500; freight and cartage, $500; water, $2,200; laundry, $75; postage and express, $336; teachers' meetings and conventions, $350; training and finding of buses, $200; training pianos, music examinations, telegrams and diplomas, $250; equipment, $2,500; manual training supplies, $1,000; domestic science supplies, $1,000; interest, $300; transportation of children, $2,500; miscellaneous, $2,500; band leader, $1,250; cafeteria estimated, $12,000; connecting of Jackson and Garfield with sewer, installing plumbing, $4,500. Total, $274,900.

Receipts aside from the tax levy are estimated as follows:
State and county, $20,500; industrial school rent, $600; Rock county training school, rent, $1,200; aid for defective speech, $1,950; aid for opportunity room, $200; commercial courses, $185; high school aid, $3,300; high school tuition, $9,000; grade school tuition, $1,400; municipal council fund, $1,100; federal aid, agriculture, $1,200; and miscellaneous items, $500. Total, $47,630.

License money of the city which formerly went to the school fund will go into the general city fund next year.

Under date of Oct. 1, 1923, the school board had $47,937 on hand to finish out the remaining three months of the year.

Industrial School Estimates.
The industrial school board estimates $27,238.30 will be required to run that institution in 1924 and $13,852 of this will be raised from the general tax levy.

The remainder, $7,375, will be received by the school in the form of state aid to the amount of $6,872, and receipts from tuition, sale of products and so forth, $1,093.

In figuring out its budget for 1924, the library board asked for $11,000, but the council allowed only $10,000, as it was declared no deductions were made for estimated receipts of about $1,300 from other sources. Thus, it is believed, the library will get the full amount it estimates will be needed, which will be expended as follows, according to the budget:

Salaries, $5,500; books, $2,000; periodicals, $250; binding, $375; water, $25; heat, $500; light, $300; janitor, $100.

supplies, $180; printing, $25; telephone, $50; repairs, $500; and insurance, $165.

Mrs. Helen M. Sutherland is president of the school board; F. L. Smith heads the industrial school board; and F. L. Clemons is president of the library board. These three boards, with the city plan commission, are the only bodies of this kind in existence now that the city manager has taken office.

Contest Rules.

No extra points will be allowed for more than one boy or girl taking at home or at school or for making more than one useful article or for participation in more than one school program or entertainment. The standard for all point records has been set with a view to the possibilities of the average boy and girl. Graded athletic tests within the scope of the average pupil of each grade will be prescribed from month to month. Tests for November will be explained in the Good Times club section next week. The recreation programs will be outlined from month to month, sent to teachers not later than the 25th of each month.

Inter-School Penmanship Contest.

In order that there may be no confusion about contest dates, it has been decided that the inter-school penmanship contest will be conducted during the same period as the individual honor contest. This means that the former will begin Nov. 1, instead of Oct. 15, and close May 1, instead of May 15.

Halloween Games.

For the game of Bats, Goblins and Howl, players choose sides while the play at opposite ends of the room or playground. One player from each side goes to the center and becomes a witch. Each player is given a name. No. 1, a bat, and so on in turn. When one of the witches calls "bats change" all players having this name must change places with those of the same name on the opposite side. Each witch tries to catch players from her opponents side. The side whose players are all caught first, loses the game.

In the game of Halloween Secrets, one person leaves the room while the others decide upon some subject or character connected with Halloween. When the person who is "it" returns

Smithson school. The club editor will be present to lead in the program of games and assist with the business of organizing a community club.

Rock Hill school. Miss Dorothea Blake, teacher, will celebrate Halloween Tuesday night, Oct. 23, with a Gazette motion picture entertainment. Vicksburg school. Miss Flora Chadwell, teacher, will have the Gazette movies in Halloween night, Oct. 23.

Crail school has a box social and Halloween program Oct. 24. Crookside will have a box social and entertainment for the pupils, Friday, Oct. 26.

The November motion picture schedule is now being arranged.

NEW BRANCH ORGANIZED.

Sturtevant school district, 7, Lima and Johnstown, organized a branch of the Good Times club following a visit from the club editor last Friday. Miss Mabel Vogel, teacher, was at Lima. The club editor, Miss Mabel Vogel, says that the pupils of that school got much pleasure and benefit from the Good Times club. Sturtevant members are: Edith, Donald, Beihman, Leroy and Winifred Douglas, Arlene Hubli, Bernice, Vera and Vernon Selchow, Edward and Eubank. Sturtevant members are: Edith, Donald, Beihman, Leroy and Winifred Douglas, Arlene Hubli, Bernice, Vera and Vernon Selchow, Edward and Eubank.

TO DISCUSS SCHOOL HEALTH.

The part the school and the teacher can take in preventing disease will be particularly stressed at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, to be held at the Health Science building, Milwaukee, Oct. 25, 26 and 27. Dr. William Reeder, assistant health commissioner of Minneapolis, who has won national attention through his research work in centers of contagion in schools, will speak on "A New Method of Studying Contact Cases in Schools." Graphic Methods in Health Education will be discussed by Dr. H. D. Kleinschmidt, executive secretary of the Toledo Public Health association, who has attracted national attention through his unusual methods of presenting health to school children. How Wisconsin normals are training their teachers to teach health will be described by F. S. Alexander, president of the Wisconsin Teachers' association and of the Whitewater state normal school.

NEWS LETTERS.

Crail school, Astrid Felland, reports: "We were all glad when school started and anxious to meet our new teacher, Miss Ethel McLaughlin. We also met our new school principal, Mr. J. J. McLaughlin. We are all very enthusiastic over the Good Times club. We are to have a box social Oct. 25. We raise money for warm lunches."

Crail school, Ruth Davis, reports: "We are very busy preparing a Halloween program and are going to have a box social, Oct. 25. We have a new pupil, Mary Vondt, who wishes to join the Good Times club. We are all anxious to take part in the contest work. On fire prevention day we discussed the cause and prevention of fires. We had a Frances Willard program and sent three essays for the contest."

Four Oaks school, Nellie Hayes, reports: "We have elected our Good Times club officers as follows: Play leaders, Lucy Hayes and William McNally; dramatist, Josephine Hayes; reporter, Nellie Hayes. Mrs. Hayes and Miss Jacobson visited our school Friday. Mrs. Hayes took a picture of the pupils. Mrs. Hayes elected officers as follows: Play leaders, Toia Mitchell, Harold Willard; dramatist, leader, Irene Cote; Gazette reporter, Ellen Johnson."

Music Memory Contest

PLANS AND PRIZES FOR YEAR OF 1924

Plans for the 1923-24 music memory contest in the one-room and state graded schools of Rock and adjoining counties have been completed. The Gazette will award two sets of inter-school prizes and an unlimited number of perfect score pins and Honor Awards.

The inter-school contests will be open to pupils of Rock and adjoining counties and will be held in Janesville in April, exact date to be announced later.

One-room school pupils will compete for one set of prizes and first and second class state graded school pupils will compete for the other set. Prizes will be as follows for each contest:

First—Solid gold type pin, suitably engraved.

Second—Gold type pin, suitably engraved.

Third and Fourth—Sterling silver enameled and engraved pins.

All who make perfect scores in the inter-school contests, on name of composition and tempo and nationality of composer will receive sterling silver perfect score pins from the Gazette. In these contests, the pupils of those who win perfect scores will be graded on supplementary and descriptive information to determine the prize winners. Should there be less than four perfect score winners, those having the next highest scores will be considered.

Descriptive information given in the inter-school contests should show that the contestants have learned to appreciate the composition and are able to explain what it means to them and what the composer sought to include what the contestant regards as the most interesting fact or facts connected with the writing of the composition. Supplementary information may include what the contestant regards as the most interesting fact or facts connected with the writing of the composition. Supplementary information may include what the contestant regards as the most interesting fact or facts connected with the writing of the composition.

Who May Compete.

HONEST SELLING POLICY ON COWS

Needed to Protect New Dairyman Purchasing Wisconsin Cattle.

By LEWIS C. HENRICH
Rock county and southern Wisconsin are in the midst of a "cattle boom."

During the last week there has been approximately $10,000 worth of grade dairy cows and pure-bred bulls sold through the efforts of the Farm Bureau and Jack C. Nisbet, recently appointed livestock agent.

There were many other carload shipments out of the county into western states. This business is going to grow, provided it is cultivated and the buyers are treated "on the square."

Misleading Prices
Generally the buyers from Iowa, Illinois and other states who come into Wisconsin to buy dairy cattle are not experienced in making selections. Anything that is black and white passes for a "Friesian" and anything yellow or brindle for a Guernsey.

Three Iowa buyers came to Rock county in answer to an advertisement that grade Holstein heifers "top quality and all tested" could be purchased for $65 a head.

Wisconsin dairymen know full well that every dairy cow does not pay her way. Cow testing association work has proven that a cow's milk production is a dividend under the most perfect conditions.

There are a number of men handling dairy cows for sale in Rock county who enjoy a good business and a reputation for straight dealing.

NEED MORE GRADE CATTLE FOR SALES

Good Grade Dairy Cows Selling Well—Urge Keeping of Milk Records.

By JACK C. NESBIT
At this season of the year a great many calves are being born. With the purebreds, the heifers are mainly raised, but in a good many cases in the grades we find that the stock yards are filled with heifer calves on veal days.

Good grade cattle today are at a premium, and buyers coming in looking for cattle do not see how we are going to be able to supply the demand. The orders come from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, and Colorado, and are enormous.

It is a known fact that "border dairy cows" have been shipped to the stockyards as "canners," only to be purchased in the yards and re-shipped as dairy cows.

EARLY SEED TESTS ADVISED BY STATE

Regulations on Sale of Seeds Outlined by A. L. Stone, Madison.

"Dealers and farmers expecting to sell farm seeds in Wisconsin next spring should get tests made and labels ready now and avoid delay," said A. L. Stone of the Wisconsin department of agriculture.

The name and kind of seed. The name and address of the seller. The percentage of pure seed. The percentage of the seed which will grow.

The following seed tests are declared as necessary: Canada clover, quack grass, clover, alfalfa, and field dodders; wild and Indian mustard; snap dragon or butter and eggs; perennial sow thistle, and buckhorn; or English plantain.

One of these seeds to 2,000 or 10,000 of the crop seeds makes the seed unsuitable in Wisconsin, except in the case of buckhorn in which the rate is one to 1,000.

The seed should be thoroughly mixed so that the sample taken from it is representative of the lot. The value of the seed sample for the accuracy of the tests.

Any one may test his own seed, but he will be held responsible for the accuracy of the tests. Should the inspector find the seed not to be as represented, the seller is liable to prosecution and fines.

These provisions apply to every man offering seed for sale for seed purposes, farmer and professional dealer alike. Farmers may sell seed in bulk to dealers without the label.

Any one may test his own seed, but he will be held responsible for the accuracy of the tests. Should the inspector find the seed not to be as represented, the seller is liable to prosecution and fines.

TOBACCO ACREAGE REDUCED BY FROST

Estimate Crop at 43 Million Pounds—Report Short Hay Crops.

Low yields of hay and extensive frost damage to tobacco are covered in an October report of the state and federal crop reporting service at Madison. The report further indicates that there is a marked increase in the production of alfalfa hay, that the Wisconsin crop of clover seed is cut about one-third, and that the September milk price is 10 cents per hundredweight higher than in August.

A record Wisconsin tobacco crop was in prospect at the time of the frosts of Sept. 12 and 13. Practically all unharvested tobacco was injured by the frost, and about half the crop remained to be harvested. The damage varied considerably, depending upon the location of the fields and the injury occurred on both the 12th and 13th. Condition is estimated by a corps of reporters to be 75 per cent of normal. The total production of both frost-damaged and undamaged tobacco is forecasted to be 43,000,000 pounds, compared to 46,000,000 pounds last year.

The United States tobacco crop is forecasted to be 10 per cent above last year's crop.

There was no serious drought in northern Wisconsin, but in the rest of the state drought cut the yields of hay. The crop was particularly short in the southwestern part of the state. The average yield of hay is 1.55 tons per acre as compared to 1.76 tons last year and a five-year average of 1.63 tons. Total production is estimated to be 4,500,000 tons, slightly less than the five-year average production and 20 per cent below last year's large hay crop.

The United States hay crop is estimated to be 10 per cent below last year's production but 4 per cent above the five-year average production.

Alfalfa maintained the highest condition of all hay crops during the entire growing season, making an average yield of 2.4 tons per acre, compared to a yield of 1.45 tons per acre last year.

Milton Beaten by Northwestern in Last Period, 20-7

Busy Man's Sport Page

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(By Mail)—It was tough the day, Artie Neft lost the world series. Experts say he twisted the greatest baseball in his career. Most people in Brooklyn, the brilliant work of Klenke, Northwestern quarterback, in the open field behind excellent interference of the Brown and Blue eleven.

The game was played in the Milton park. Although the field was not fast, there was little slipping or fumbling because of a soft field. Neither team scored during the first three quarters. Milton had the ball during the 10-yard line on three different occasions, but the Brown and Blue held solid, and forward passes failed. During the second and third quarters the ball was never within 40 yards of Milton goal, and at no time during the game did the Northwestern eleven put the ball in play from scrimmage inside of Milton's 25 yard line.

The second score was made by Ott, who intercepted a pass and covered the 30 yards between him and the goal. Klenke again pulled a built-up bit of work and the first drive caught a punt on his own 30 yard line and ran through a broken field for a touchdown.

The Brown and Blue eleven opened up on passes with Lumphreys throwing, and succeeded in completing a sensational long one for a gain of 70 yards and touchdown. Seagrave made a clever catch, eluded the safety and crossed the goal line after a run of 40 yards.

Klenke is Big Star. Passing was what even on both sides. Northwestern attempting a few more. Both sides intercepted two, but Northwestern had the advantage of position in both. The game was a close one, but Northwestern fumbled but once and recovered that.

With the lights—Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, gained the decision over George Robinson, Cambridge negro, in 10 rounds, at Boston. Abe Goldstein of New York won the judges' decision over Burman of Chicago in 12 rounds.

With Kansas City leading the minor league series, three to one, Baltimore Orioles met the Blues in the fifth game Saturday.

Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, gained the decision over George Robinson, Cambridge negro, in 10 rounds, at Boston. Abe Goldstein of New York won the judges' decision over Burman of Chicago in 12 rounds.

Walton League Chapter Formed in Evansville. Formation of the Evansville chapter of Isak Walton league took place Friday night and 20 members were admitted.

Robert Collins was elected president, O. W. Miller, secretary, and Zala Miller, treasurer.

A committee on by-laws was formed with C. J. Smith as chairman; Dr. J. W. Ames, and Dr. H. M. Pogo. Membership committee was formed also with H. E. Davenport, chairman; Arthur Devine and Martin L. Paulson as assistants.

Jimmy Smith Performs Here. Jimmy Smith, hailed as the "world's champion bowler," was scheduled to play exhibition matches on the Grebo-Neuman alley Saturday afternoon with Dr. E. P. Richards and Paul Kitchoff, two of Evansville's best players, as his opponents.

Smith boasts a record of having bowled 10 perfect scores of 300 each. He was brought here in the interests of the Milwaukee tournament, which opens in January next.

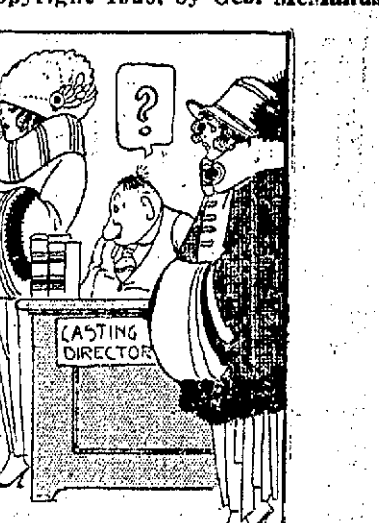

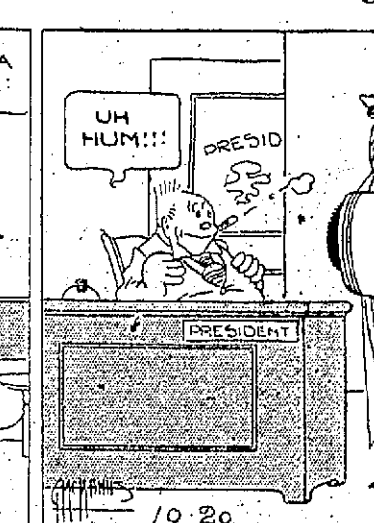

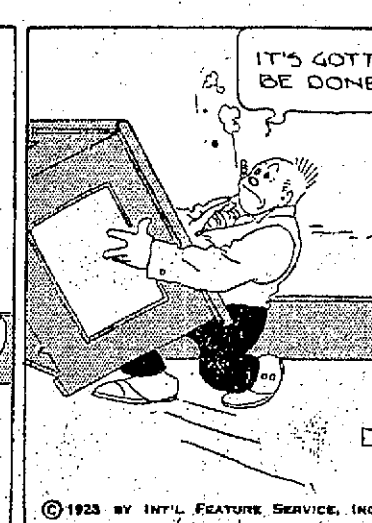

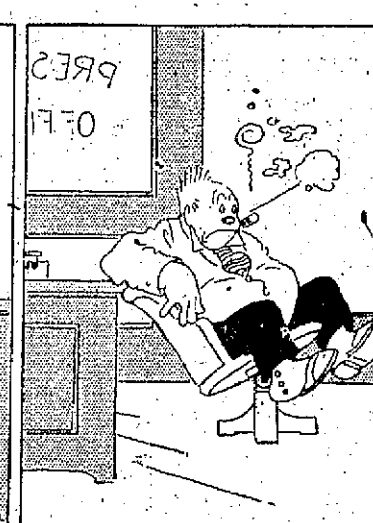

Just a Reminder. When it's real morning news that you desire, remember that there's a newspaper circulated in Wisconsin for morning readers, which has as complete and authentic news of the state, the nation, and the world.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Conference Teams Are Primed for Kickoff

Chicago—Championship hopes of Big Ten football teams will be boosted or blasted in today's games with three of the most important conflicts bearing on the western conference title scheduled.

The showing made by Michigan and Iowa for honors last year, respectively, will be the gauge by which their chances for the title will be measured.

Indiana, with one Big Ten victory to its credit, meets Wisconsin, playing its first conference game of the season.

The Michigan-Ohio State fray at Ann Arbor may develop into an aerial conflict, both teams having devoted much time to passing and punting. Illinois plus its hopes largely on the work of Grange, halfback.

Chicago hopes to advance its conference standing by a victory over Northwestern.

The Wisconsin Badgers, who have been slow to start this season, are expected to reveal their strength against Indiana at Bloomington.

Purdue, meeting Wabash, and Minnesota clashing with North Dakota university, are considered to have little chance of winning their first conference clash is scheduled for next week against the Badgers.

Ralph Soulman, captain of the Mohawks, knocked out for a count of 252 Friday night, thereby breaking the individual single game record in the Lakota Bowling League, previously held by Richards with 238.

In his first game, Soulman hit 157 and 176 for a grand total of 333, high for the night; also leading his team to a two-game victory which advanced it to third higher in the list of standings.

N. McCarthy, garnered 233 pins, while Earl Merrell hit 224 for second and Lura high individual records for the night.

Soulman's Mohawks pounced out an 833 for high single game, while the Comanches were the best in three games.

While there were several shakeups in standings, none affected Sennett's Crows or Merritt's Sioux, which continued to lead the league for the straight, winning one by 10 pins; so far the league leaders have lost only two games. The Pueblos made it a tie for the series championship by defeating the Winnagoes three.

Schoenig Still Tops Bowlers in Industrial Race

With an average of 187.1 pins for 12 games, Henry Schoenig of the Gazette five continues to lead the Industrial Bowling League in individual records, with Dr. S. F. Richards, of the Traction company quinter, in second place with 184.7 average.

His performance on the alleys this week, Krossin, of Hamilton & Lang's, is topping them all for high and high three games. Krossin's high for single game is 257, Cleveland is second with 247 and Cassidy, third with 238. Krossin's best for three games is 645; Warner is next with 616; and Schoenig is third with 619.

For the best three game total, Chevrolet has 253; the R. P. B.'s have 256; and the Traction company, 254. For single game scores, the Traction company leads with 227; the Wisconsin Electric Sales has 892; and the R. P. B.'s, 882.

SOME OF THE RECENT IMPORTANT EVENTS OF THE WORLD TOLD IN PICTURES ON THIS PAGE

M. Rakowsky and his wife, photographed in London.

After a delay of several months the British government has accepted M. Rakowsky as soviet envoy to London to succeed Leonid Krassin. Anti-British speeches made by Rakowsky caused the British government to protest against his appointment at first but after lengthy negotiations he received his credentials. He arrived in London recently with his wife and daughter.

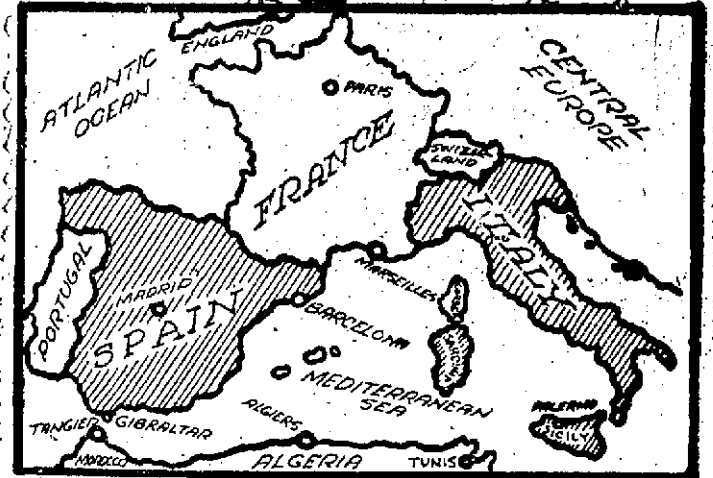

Gov. Walter M. Pierce of Oregon and his two daughters, who laugh at the attacks on him.

Gov. J. C. Walton of Oklahoma is facing impeachment because of his activities against the Ku Klux Klan. Gov. McCray of Indiana is under fire because of his financial difficulties. And now a mysterious attack is being made on Gov. Walter M. Pierce of Oregon. Impeachment is threatened. "Business interests" and the K. K. K. are said to be behind the effort to oust him.

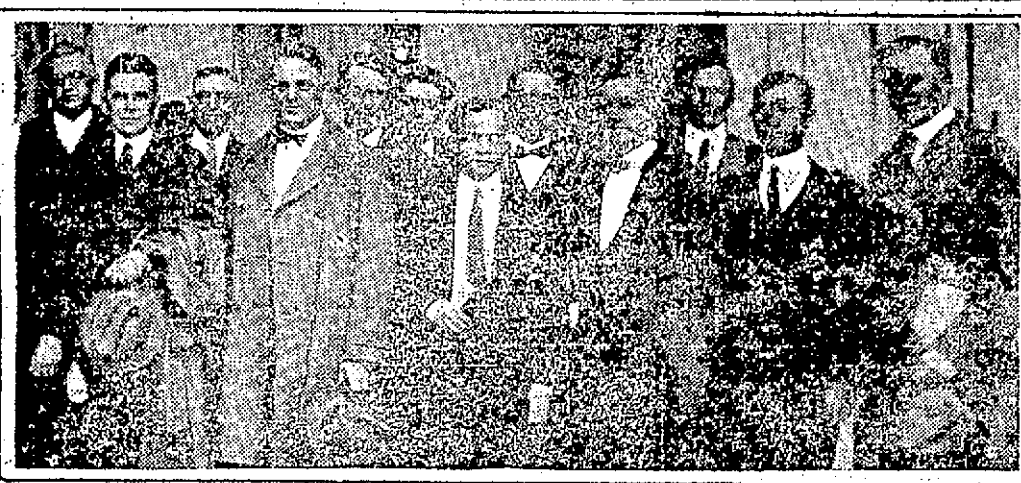

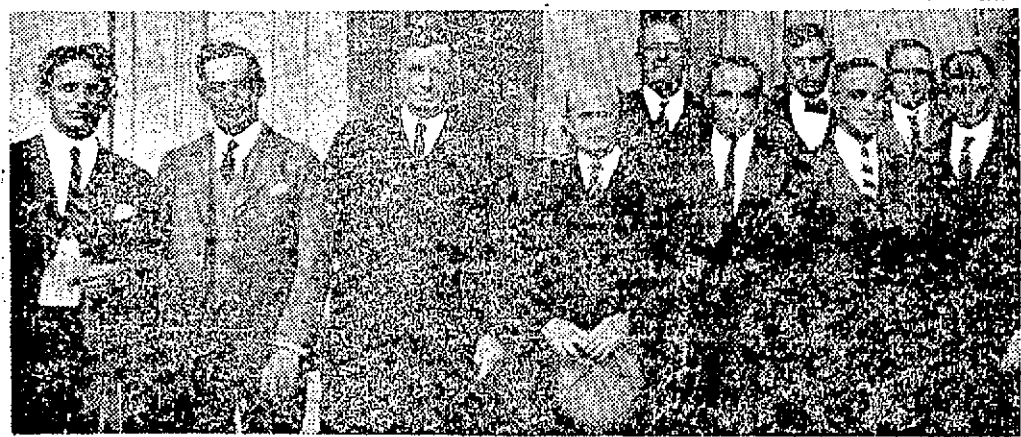

Clara Kimball Young.

That Clara Kimball Young, movie queen, lured his wife to midnight bathing frolics and thereby helped wreck his home is the charge made by Joseph Sachs, wealthy Los Angeles shop owner. The accusation is hurled in his answer to a suit for separate maintenance filed by Mrs. Sachs. He says Clara induced Mrs. Sachs to leave home. Miss Young denies any such efforts.

Dictators Mussolini (left) and de Rivera and map of the Mediterranean region.

Two dictators, Benito Mussolini of Italy and Primo de Rivera of Spain, will meet in Rome on Nov. 20. France fears the purpose of the meeting is to set up a new balance of power in the Mediterranean. Completion of the Spanish and Italian submarines makes the combined fleets of these nations superior to the fleet of France.

Here are the men upon whom rests the responsibility of viewing charges against Gov. Walton.

The report of this house investigating committee will do much to determine whether the house impeaches the Oklahoma executive. The ablest lawyers in the legislature are on the committee.

Senator Alva B. Adams, photographed recently in Washington, D. C.

Sensor Alva B. Adams of Colorado, whose election attracted considerable interest because of the fact that his father before him had been a senator, recently visited Washington to give his new job the "once over." He also called on President Coolidge.

Maj. Gen. Robert C. Davis.

Maj. Gen. Robert C. Davis, adjutant general of the army, is the youngest major general in Uncle Sam's service. He recently celebrated his forty-seventh birthday.

Mrs. Ida Torseth.

Mrs. Ida Torseth, of Virginia, Minn., is a member of the real estate board of Duluth, Minn., and has a realty office in Virginia, a prosperous suburb. "Selling real estate may not look like a woman's job, but women are naturally more interested in homes than men," she says.

Monsignor Don Antonio Rella, center, and members of the Sistine choir, snapped since their arrival.

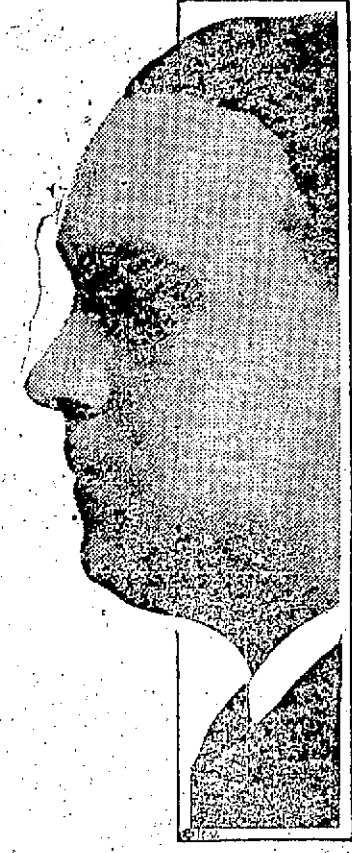

For the second time in the 1600 years it has been in existence the famous Sistine choir of the Vatican has left the Pope's residence for a tour to give music lovers of various lands a chance to hear the 54 members. It arrived in New York recently and will tour the U. S. for 10 weeks. Monsignor Don Antonio Rella is the conductor. The choir's youngest member is ten years old.

These three charming hats show the trend of the styles for the late fall and winter. Small and off-the-face shapes seem favored. The little turban in the top picture looks like a Greek or Roman helmet with the plume running the wrong way.

George Le Boutillier.

George Le Boutillier, who succeeded the late Ralph Peters as president of the Long Island Railroad at a salary of $75,000 a year, started life as office boy for Peters, then a division superintendent. He left the railroad business long enough to attend school and college and then returned as a roadman on the lines out of Pittsburgh. From then on his rise was rapid.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg snapped during a recent hunting expedition into the mountains of Bavaria.

While monarchist plots in Germany, and particularly in Bavaria, bubble and boil, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, still ranked as an idol and therefore a possible choice for ruler, follows his favorite pastime of hunting. At seventy-six years of age he is pale and hearty.

A simple dinner dress is illustrated on the left. Tote de negre panne velvet is used for the frock. A knee flounce of gold lace and a knot of ribbon at the girdle are the trimmings. Another dinner dress, also charming, is illustrated at the right. Green chiffon is used this time and the frock is beaded in self color. Ecru lace tops the blouse, outlines the arms and is used quite lavishly on the skirt. By way of variety, the center model is a tulle breakfast coat that would make any Christmas heart skip a beat. As illustrated it is deep pink and trimmed with pink and orchid metal ribbon. Such a negligee would make an acceptable Christmas gift.

Earl Beatty.

Earl Beatty, first sea lord of the British Admiralty, may succeed Sir Auckland Geddes as ambassador to the U. S. in event of Sir Auckland's resignation, oft rumored on account of ill health. "It is said the British government desires to place the earl in such a post before the reduction of navy pay is taken up next year as he is strongly opposed to a cut."

How to Prepare Your Car for the Cold Weather

Before the cold freezing weather sets in, it is wise to make sure that your car is ready to meet it when it arrives. A little time spent now, will surely save a good deal of time and expense later. Every year thousands of motorists all over the country pay repair men hundreds of thousands of dollars that need not have been spent if only a little time had been spent in preparation before the cold freezing weather set in. Remember, that it takes just one night of freezing weather to do damage that may cost you anything from $20.00 to $200.00 for repairs, and in addition to the cost of the repairs you will be deprived of the use of your car, while the repairs are being made. It is a very old saying "Prevention is better than cure," and for this reason I will give you, during the next few weeks, instructions showing just what precautions to take, so that when the zero weather does arrive, you will be ready for it.

An anti-freezing mixture of some kind in the cooling system is absolutely necessary, and as this mixture is generally alcohol which will quickly find any leaking spots, the first thing you should do is to carefully examine the radiator and all the hose connections, to see that they do not leak. Alcohol rots the rubber to a certain extent and for this reason, if the hose is very old or is cracked in the outer covering, you will find it a good investment to fit new hose connections before the winter weather arrives. If the radiator is leaking, do not attempt to remedy it by using one of the patent liquid preparations for stopping radiator leaks. These preparations are all right for making temporary repair, but are not to be trusted for a permanent one. The majority of them contain a base, shellac, which acts all right when water only is used in the cooling system. Shellac, however, is dissolved by alcohol and as soon as you start to use alcohol for an anti-freeze with water, your radiator will start to leak again. The better and safer way is to have a radiator specialist repair your radiator if it is leaking at any part.

On some engines the water is circulated through the cooling system by a pump, although, on a large number of engines no pump is used. If you have a pump fitted to the engine of your car, examine the packing glands on the pump shaft to see that they do not leak. If there is any sign of a leak, tighten the packing nut, but be very careful not to set it up too tightly, as this will prevent the pump shaft from revolving freely. The next thing to consider is the kind of anti-freezing mixture you are going to use. There are a large number of anti-freezing mixtures, but experience has shown that the best all around anti-freeze is alcohol. As soon as the FIRST SIGN of cold weather appears, take no risks, but pour about a quart of alcohol into the radiator. When the real freezing weather arrives, fill the radiator with water to within 4 inches of the top, then drain it off to see how many gallons of water it holds. For anti-freeze, mix alcohol with the water, in the following proportions:

| Freezing Point | Alcohol | Water |
|----------------|---------|-------|
| 10° above zero | 20% | 80% |
| Zero | 30% | 70% |
| 20° below zero | 50% | 50% |

If, to the above, you add about a pint of glycerine, it will prevent the alcohol from evaporating to a certain extent. Keep a gallon of alcohol handy in the garage, so that you can always replace regularly that lost by evaporation.

Just a word of warning. There will, no doubt, be thousands of motorists who will read this article, yet will neglect to take the advice given, until it is too late, so will find some morning on going to the garage to take out the car, that the water in the cooling system is frozen. It is quite probable that you will find the cylinders cracked and the radiator will leak from certain points. However, if there is a circulating water pump on the engine, DO NOT ATTEMPT TO START THE ENGINE IMMEDIATELY, or, in addition to the cracked cylinders, you will probably have a new pump shaft to pay for. The first thing you should do, is to thaw out the pump by pouring hot water over it, and if possible, thaw out the radiator with hot water also. Now, disconnect the fan belt and cover the hood and front of the radiator with a good thick blanket, then the engine run with the Spark Lever fully retarded, until you see the water begins to circulate again.

Cut out this article, and those to follow during the next few weeks and paste them up on the wall of your garage for reference. They will contain information that will be valuable to you during the coming months.

Increased Driving Comfort Provided in Buick "Fours"

In adjusting the position of the driving seat, in lowering the steering column and in bringing the shift lever and emergency brake within the easiest possible reach of the driver's hand, Buick has provided additional comfort and satisfaction in the new four-cylinder models. Ease of handling is also an outstanding feature of the new Buick "Four". In heavy traffic the abundant power of the famous valve-in-head engine and the quickness with which the car responds to every control enable it to glide in and out of traffic with the utmost facility, while Buick four-wheel brakes assure perfect braking and safety under all conditions.

Are you looking for a real good tire and at the same time are you interested in buying that tire at a very reasonable price?

The new Racine Multi-Mile Cord at $11.75 is the answer. In it you get quality and price combined.

All tires look pretty much alike. Only when you buy a tire with a reputable name, made by a reputable manufacturer, can you be sure of getting quality. The small saving effected by buying a cheap, unknown tire becomes a heavy expense when the tire fails to give you the satisfaction you have a right to expect from your tire.

BE an AMERICAN, OWN YOUR OWN HOME

The Real American —is the man who owns part of America A Home

The American spirit is one of independence, and that man who truly possesses this spirit will evidence the fact by owning a Home—being independent of a landlord's authority.

America is the best country in the world—largely by reason of its homes. The one way to make it a better country is to increase the percentage of home owners.

PLANS NO. 1584—1585

This attractive home presents many unique details which add materially to the pleasing lines of the exterior.
The side pergola porch, to be shaded by vines, connects with the terrace porch that extends around to front of the house. These special features, together with the graceful curve over dining room windows, reflect marked individuality and command consideration.
These plans have been created to offer greatest possible amount of front exposure, making the home appear more pretentious and costly than it really is, and the arrangement of rooms is all that could be wished for in a home of this size.

Do you own part of America? If not, remember—real estate and improvements are responsible for America's greatness. The proud position she occupies through real estate millions has found the way to independence.

The wise investor buys real estate—land—something tangible, on which he may erect a home which will net a revenue. If you have been favored by these prosperous times, think well before turning your money into a channel removed from your home town. Get this thought and keep it before you—you are in a better position to direct the spending of your money than anyone else.

You should build a home, provide for the comfort and welfare of your family. A home is an asset, not a liability. It instills confidence in yourself, confidence in your city and inspires confidence in your neighbors and fellow citizens. A famous writer on economic subjects said: "Show me a city of home-owners and I will show you a prosperous, satisfied and progressive community."

Second, if you own your home, then buy a piece of ground and improve it with rental property, either for business or residence purposes. Consider the needs, both present and future, of your town and build accordingly. No man ever lost money through real estate. Weigh carefully and make a most thorough investigation of any and all investments before putting your money into the other fellow's schemes—better by far invest it yourself in property—in your own home town—which will enhance; enjoy its proceeds whether it be the joys of a home or monthly rental from the revenue property.

The best American in the true nature of things is the man who Owns Part Of America—
HIS HOME.
